Graceling by Kristin Cashore follows in a burgeoning market for strong female characters. Katsa is much like Katniss from The Hunger Games in her naive perception of the world, her coldness and tendency towards pragmatic practicality. She is similar to Xhex from the Black Dagger Brotherhood in her disgust of all things "feminine".

Graceling (Graceling Realm, #1) by Kristin Cashore

Graceling is a young adult fantasy novel written by American author Kristin Cashore, her literary debut. The book earned a place on the Publishers Weekly Best Books of the Year for 2008 and received generally favorable reviews. It was followed by a prequel companion book entitled Fire.

Graceling - Wikipedia

" Graceling is the wonderful new book by Kristin Cashore about a girl with grace, but who is no Audrey Hepburn. Katsa's extreme special skill, her 'grace,' is that she's able to kill people with her bare hands (ouch). In a world of seven kingdoms, Katsa is certainly considered a bad-ass and is respectably feared.

Gracelings are often born with their strange gift of skill, but sometimes awaken to it later in life after a traumatic event or an intense experience of some kind. When building your character, you'll want to think on when their Grace manifested and how it was seen by those around them at the time.

What is Graceling About and Why Should I Care? Sure all the action, espionage, and secrecy keep Graceling moving along at a nice clip (which makes it a pretty easy and enjoyable read). And yes, Katsa is pretty much a medieval fantasy version of Jason Bourne. But this isn't your typical thriller where it's always easy to tell the good guys from the bad guys, the right choices from the wrong ones.
